S1. IDS expression was studied by in situ hybridization in fixed human pancreas sections using sense (negative control) (A) and antisense (B) probes. Note the lack of hybridization signal in (A) whereas a positive nuclear hybridization signal is observed in human islet cells (B). (figures are representative image of three different specimen experiments).